MacMillan- roving archivist, man of letters, the stuff of legend. He trekked all over North America in search of the diaries, notes, and journals of everyday women and men who built the country; he hunted down the business records of fur traders, lumber barons, and canal builders. He unearthed collections that shed light on the lives of entertainers, politicians, and even noted criminals. Hugh P. MacMillan was truly a foot soldier of Canadian social history. This is his story. An enormously exciting, beautifully written and very moving work. The Paper Canoe comprises a fascinating dialogue with such masters of theatre as Stanislavski, Meyerhold, Craig, Copeau, Brecht, Artand and Decroux. Nineteenth-century British periodicals for girls and women offer a wealth of material to understand how girls and women fit into their social and cultural worlds, of which music making was an important part. The Girl's Own Paper, first published in 1880, stands out because of its rich musical content. Keeping practical usefulness as a research tool and as a guide to further reading in mind, Judith Barger has catalogued the musical content found in the weekly and later monthly issues during the magazine's first thirty years, in music scores, instalments of serialized fiction about musicians, music-related nonfiction, poetry with a musical title or theme, illustrations depicting music making and replies to musical correspondents. The book's introductory chapter reveals how content in The Girl's Own Paper changed over time to reflect a shift in women's music making from a female accomplishment to an increasingly professional role within the discipline, using 'the piano girl' as a case study. A comparison with musical content found in The Boy's Own Paper over the same time span offers additional insight into musical content chosen for the girls' magazine. A user's guide precedes the chronological annotated catalogue; the indexes that follow reveal the magazine's diversity of approach to the subject of music. Volumes include: Statutory record. In a research project, the most critical part is writing the report in a way which presents not just our findings, but the process through which we arrived at these findings. It demands honesty about our research design and our perspectives, so that others can understand not just the research we have produced, but something about the way in which we have produced it. When carrying out research it is all too easy to become embroiled in our own research questions and objectives, so that when it comes to presenting our research we forget about situating it within the wider body of knowledge. For the lack of proper knowledge, many people find it difficult to writing up their paper. This book is intended to help you organize and write a quality research paper for Social Sciences. This book also gives you the idea about research design. "Contains the full text of all the papers published in abstract "A" form in PA & S." Chromatographic & Electrophoretic Techniques, Fourth Edition, Volume I: Paper and Thin Layer Chromatography presents the methods of paper and thin layer chromatography. This book discusses the practical approach in the application of paper and thin layer chromatography techniques in the biological sciences.
